3. The note printed at the top of the bill and the note on the reverse thereof are defective. In accordance with the note, as now printed, the Treasury Officer cannot object to pay abstract contingent bills presented between the 1st and 15th of any month though detailed bills for sums drawn during any of the preceding months may not have been sent. The words "it bears date subsequent to the 16th and" in the note on the top of the bill will therefore be omitted in future, and the following substituted for the note on the reverse of the bill:—

"Note.—The following certificate must be signed in all cases. If the bill bears date within the 15th of the month, the word 'Current' may be changed to 'last.' The Treasury Officer shall refuse to encash a bill unless the proper certificate is signed."

4. Due intimation will be given from time to time, to the Treasuries, of the offices which do not submit their detailed contingent bills in time, and the payment of further abstract contingent bills stopped till the detailed contingent bills are submitted.

5. Should the Head of an office, for any reason, anticipate delay in furnishing a detailed bill for any unusual or special charge, he will apply to this office for extension of time for submitting it when the Treasury will be duly apprised of the fact and instructed to pay the officer's abstract contingent bill up to a specified date on the production of a certificate modified in respect of the special items. Such cases, it need hardly be observed, will necessarily be few.

6. The Superintendent of the Government Press will be requested to make the alterations noted in para 3 supra when next printing the form of the abstract contingent bill. The Heads of Offices are requested meanwhile to see that the alterations are made in manuscript till new forms are supplied by the Press.

7. The Treasury Officer should see that the above instructions are strictly observed and that the certificate on the back of the bill is in the proper form as provided for in para 3 supra.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

J. S. CHAKRAVARTI,
Comptroller.
